one of the most important innovations of amborella and later angiosperms was to enclose its seeds in an ovary